

Alabama Gameday Scavenger Hunt, 2011 Edition*

* Although some essential items are the same as last year's Scavenger Hunt, many huntable items are updated for this year's sporting trends.

One of the most fascinating things about the "manly" sport of football is how it turns men into fashionistas, wearing prints and fabrics that they would never otherwise wear. Along this vein, here are your first spotting assignments:

- A man wearing embroidered animals on his backside.
- A man in seersucker. 100 bonus points if he appears to be under 30 years of age.
- 150 bonus points if you can spot a man in seersucker WITH an embroidered animal on his backside.
- A man (or more) in more than four yards of houndstooth, the larger the print the better.

Although the men have rather impressive fashion statements, they are tame compared to the female population.

- Translucent houndstooth.
- Houndstooth Toms (I predict that within two years, these will completely replace the Essential Sorority Uniform Staple, Uggs.)
- A woman wearing team color camouflage.
- An Auburn Sorority Chick. An extra 100 points if she's carrying a Houndstooth-covered drink.
- A girl whose shoes quite obviously weigh more than her dress.
- A girl whose shoes leave you wondering if the Piperlime Accessory Wall aggressively attacked her.
- A girl whose shoes are causing her more bodily harm than if she were actually participating in the football game.
- "Custom" jeans. 50 Bonus Points for each additional person with said custom jeans.
- Gameday lingerie. 500 bonus points if seen in use, or under translucent houndstooth, creating a hypnotizingly dizzying effect.
- An entire sales booth devoted to women's chic gameday fashion.
- A girl wearing a skirt shorter than her purse.
- Two different houndstooth prints on the same person, 25 bonus points for each additional size of houndstooth.

Kids have gameday fashion, too. Here are a few childish fashion statements to hunt:

- Gameday smock. Need I say more?

- A mother making her child dress in glitter and sparkles just like her.
- A hat with it's own hair.
- A hat with it's own 'hawk.
- A real 'hawk. On a child. 100 bonus points if it is also in bizarre colors.

And then, of course, there are the accessories.

- A fully decked-out gameday vehicle.
- 200 bonus points if said gameday vehicle can blare the fight song loud enough to make your children (and future children) deaf.
- An Alabama Tattoo. Bonus points for each consecutive Alabama tattoo on the same person.
- UmbrellaHeads.
- Husband/Wife coordinating headgear.
- Large groups of people drinking at unsafe heights.

And then, there are the truly bizarre...

- A male that looks totally unaware that they're even at a football game of any sort.
- An opposing team's fan that makes all Alabama fans look sane.
- Someone so bizarre that no one would believe you if you DIDN'T photograph it.
- A fan that seems to be simultaneously supporting the home team AND the opposing team... 100 extra bonus points if the opposing team isn't a BCS-level team.

May you discover The True Meaning of Football in your quest, and not get attacked by stiletto heels, aggressive tattoo artists, or Alabama Superheroes in the process.